Entrepreneur Magazine and the Princeton Review Rank University of Chicago's Booth School of Business Second in Graduate Entrepreneurship Programs

Chicago (September 21, 2010) – From over 2,000 schools surveyed by The Princeton Review for Entrepreneur magazine, The University of Chicago's Booth School of Business was recognized as having one of the top 50 entrepreneurship programs in the country. The University of Chicago ranked second in the graduate category of the survey.

The eighth annual ranking reveals the nation's top 25 undergraduate and top 25 graduate programs for entrepreneurship. The University of Chicago's ranking can be seen at www.entrepreneur.com/topcolleges.

"Our curriculum provides students with a broad business education and hands-on, experiential learning opportunities to develop the skills and knowledge needed to start a new venture," said Ellen Rudnick, clinical professor and executive director of the Polsky Center for Entrepreneurship at the University of Chicago Booth's School of Business. "It is an honor to be recognized for our work in shaping the entrepreneurial ecosystem in Chicago and around the globe."

The University of Chicago was evaluated based on key criteria in the areas of teaching entrepreneurship business fundamentals in the classroom, staffing departments with successful entrepreneurs, excellence in mentorship, providing experiential or entrepreneurial opportunities outside of the classroom, as well as non-traditional, distinguishable aspects of their programs.

"Behind the top ranked schools is not only a great formal classroom experience, but a cross-disciplinary approach to teaching entrepreneurship that embraces and encourages a student's vision to build a successful business," said Robert Franek, The Princeton Review's senior vice president of publishing and nationally recognized expert on college admissions.

"The right education enhances and reinforces curiosity and creative thinking in entrepreneurs," commented Amy Cospers, vice president and editor in chief at Entrepreneur. "This ranking provides a unique look at top schools that offer the type of training, encouragement and direction that nurtures entrepreneurial skills. It's an excellent resource for those interested in academics as a pathway to their goals, and it can help tremendously in the discovery process to finding the right program."

The results of the survey, along with the analysis, appear in the October issue of Entrepreneur, which hits newsstands today, September 21st.
