Has your chapter sponsored a particularly interesting or successful event? We want to know about it. E-mail, fax, or mail us a short summary (100 words or less) for publication in the next issue of Chicago GSB. Please include where and when the event occurred, who organized it, how many alumni attended, and any other relevant details.

Photos

Scanned photos must be of high resolution to reproduce well, so we can accept only jpeg files that are 300 dpi or higher and at least five inches long on the widest side. Please identify clearly all the individuals pictured and include any GSB or University of Chicago degrees and class years. When sending prints, please include your name and class year on the back. If you want your print returned, please make that request and include your return address information at the time of submission.

Timing

When we receive your news, we prepare it for publication in the next issue of the magazine whenever possible. Because it takes nearly three months to write, design, proofread, print, and distribute our quarterly magazine, your update may appear anywhere from three to six months after submission. Feel free to e-mail us at editor@gsb.uchicago.edu to inquire about upcoming deadlines or to find out when your news will appear. As always, we welcome any suggestions or comments regarding Alumni News or any part of the magazine.—M.M.B.

Scheller writes: "In March, we hosted a wine tasting at The Wine House with 52 attendees. Thanks to David Hemstreet, '63, for organizing the event. The next month, the club participated in a joint wine tasting organized by Harvard alumni. About 85 people attended, including alumni from Stanford, Kellogg, Anderson, Darden, Wharton, Columbia, Sloan, Haas, and Marshall. The wines were from two Santa Barbara wineries.

"Also in April, the chapter and associate dean of enrollment management Don Martin hosted the admissions reception for new Los Angeles-area students.

"In May, chapters from the GSB and UCLA's Anderson School co-hosted a summit for the presidents and board members of alumni clubs from other top business schools. More than 50 people from 15 schools attended. Our objective was to build a broader Bern writes: “Our 2002 career management series, Job Search 2002, continued in March. In April we held ‘Career Alternatives for the 2000s,’ which featured organizations that provide short-term assignments for experienced and talented individuals.

“April's events continued with M.B.A. Night at the Ballet, with a complimentary reception and preferred seating. The club held its semiannual volunteer event at the Greater Chicago Food Depository the next weekend and finished the month with a cocktail party at the Alumni Club on Division Street to welcome new admits. In May the club held its first event with the Chicago Business School Alliance, an association of Chicago-area alumni clubs of top 20 business schools.

“The summer began with two sold-out events. Ninety chapter members toured the facilities of Argonne National Laboratory, including the Advanced Photon Source and Transportation Technology Center. The following week, club members met at Le Francais, the restaurant owned by Phil Mott, '90. Robert Craig, '66, of Robert Craig Wine Cellars, brought his Napa wines to go with the modern French dishes. June wrapped up with a second cocktail party for admits at the Hunt Club on Chicago's Near North Side.”

In July, the club held another career management event, “Elevator Speeches That Will Get You Noticed.” August featured a popular wall-climbing outing and a cruise along the lakefront to watch rehearsals for the Air and Water Show.

Alumni Launch E-Business Roundtable

Different companies define transformation differently, Rajan Anandan, principal at McKinsey in Chicago, told 140 alumni in March at the inaugural E-Business Roundtable.

“But our definition is simple: Transformation is about leveraging digital technology to drive performance improvement in the enterprise. This is about improving margins, improving capital, and growing earnings for as long as you can. If you can do that, you will effectively transform your enterprise.”

Anandan spoke about the concrete ways new technology can improve the bottom lines of companies, citing research currently being conducted by McKinsey and Wharton.

His talk at Gleacher Center kicked off the GSB E-Business Roundtable, a regular, in-depth forum that will focus on sharing information and solving real-world business problems with a mix of speakers, workshops and case studies. More information on the E-Business Roundtable is available at www.virtualstrategist.net/roundtable/ebiz.html and on page 41 of this issue. —J.V.

Danielle Palmer, '92

After more than seven years at Chicago GSB, Danielle H. Palmer, '92, has stepped down from her position as associate dean of alumni affairs and special events. Palmer left in May to pursue other interests.

During her tenure, which began in August 1994, Palmer expanded the scope of alumni services and events. Her achievements include opening the Midway Club at Gleacher Center, developing a global infrastructure of 74 alumni chapters and 12 roundtables centered around an industry or job function, and establishing a structure of class presidents to engage alumni by class.

In addition, Palmer expanded the Distinguished Alumni Awards and Alumni Celebration. She also instituted alumni career services, which later evolved into the Office to Advance Career and Corporate Alliances.—M.M.B.
