

Jonathan Weiss is an experienced healthcare entrepreneur and operator. Previously, he was co-founder, CEO and director of several companies including Nations Healthcare, which was one of the largest diagnostic and surgery centre companies contracted in the United Kingdom to build, staff and manage centres diagnosing and treating 300,000 patients annually. Subsequently, Jonathan was co-founder and director of Endeavour Health (Better2Know) and Premier Health Partners, operating in the primary health and obstetric fields respectively throughout the UK and Europe. Jonathan is a medical doctor and has also earned law, business, and economics/policy qualifications. He is a graduate of the University of Chicago's Pritzker School of Medicine and Booth School of Business, having completed both an MD and an MBA under Chicago's dual degree program. He was educated as a lawyer, receiving his BA degree from Oxford University, and additionally holds an MSc in Health Economics and Policy from Stanford University and a BA in Government from Harvard University.

Jonathan often acts as a director and/or consultant to international companies, including Fortune 100 US insurers and medical management firms; he serves as an elected director on one of the Chancellor's boards at Oxford University; is a non-executive director on behalf of IDTM, a Swedish company with international operations in the sports drug testing industry; and is a Co-opted Trustee of the RMBI elderly care homes portfolio. Jonathan is currently the 2012 Oxford University Centre for Entrepreneurship & Innovation's Entrepreneur-in-Residence, and similarly served as an Executive-in-Residence at Chicago Booth in London. Through these and other endeavours, Jonathan often mentors alumni and faculty entrepreneurs and business executives through affiliations at universities including Oxford, Harvard, Stanford and the University of Chicago's business programmes and venture competitions. In the past 8 years, he has lead or co-lead on over $500 million in company financings and capital raises.