Send us your chapter updates
Has your chapter sponsored a particularly interesting or successful event? We want to know about it. E-mail, fax, or mail us a short summary (100 words or less) for publication in the next issue of Chicago GSB. Please include where and when the event occurred, who organized it, how many alumni attended, and any other relevant details.

Photos
Scanned photos must be of high resolution to reproduce well, so we can accept only jpeg files that are 300 dpi or higher and at least five inches long on the widest side. Please identify clearly all the individuals pictured and include any GSB or University of Chicago degrees and class years. When sending prints, please include your name and class year on the back. If you want your print returned, please make that request and include your return address information at the time of submission.

Timing
When we receive your news, we prepare it for publication in the next issue of the magazine whenever possible. Because it takes nearly three months to write, design, proofread, print, and distribute our quarterly magazine, your update may appear anywhere from three to six months after submission. Feel free to e-mail us at editor@gsb.uchicago.edu to inquire about upcoming deadlines or to find out when your news will appear. As always, we welcome any suggestions or comments regarding Alumni News or any part of the magazine.—M.M.B.

Different companies define transformation differently, Rajan Anand, principal at McKinsey in Chicago, told 140 alumni in March at the inaugural E-Business Roundtable.

“But our definition is simple: Transformation is about leveraging digital technology to drive performance improvement in the enterprise. This is about improving margins, improving capital, and growing earnings for as long as you can. If you can do that, you will effectively transform your enterprise.”

Anand spoke about the concrete ways new technology can improve the bottom lines of companies, citing research currently being conducted by McKinsey and Wharton.

His talk at Gleacher Center kicked off the GSB E-Business Roundtable, a regular, in-depth forum that will focus on sharing information and solving real-world business problems with a mix of speakers, workshops and case studies. More information on the E-Business Roundtable is available at www.virtualstrategy.net/roundtable/ebiz.html and on page 41 of this issue.—48.

Over the spring and summer, UCWBG hosted several events in the Chicago area. In March, the group sponsored a workshop at Gleacher Center on balancing personal life and professional responsibilities. Attendees examined assumptions, beliefs, support structures, and boundaries while learning to set value-based goals.

GSB executive-in-residence Sheila彭斯 joined the group for its annual spring tea at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel in April. At this event, the 2002 Distinguished Service Awards were presented to Christine B. Cantario, ‘82, and Trisha M. Rogers, ‘82.

In May, UCWBG and the Professional Women’s Club of Chicago cosponsored a progressive networking lunch at the University Club in downtown Chicago. Attendees changed tables for each of the three courses, giving each participant a chance to meet many potential contacts.

Danielle Palmer, ‘92, Leaves Office of Alumni Affairs and Special Events
After more than seven years at Chicago GSB, Danielle H. Palmer, ‘92, has stepped down from her position as associate dean of alumni affairs and special events. Palmer left in May to pursue other interests.

During her tenure, which began in August 1994, Palmer expanded the scope of alumni services and events. Her achievements include opening the Midway Club at Gleacher Center, developing a global infrastructure of 74 alumni chapters and 12 roundtables centered around an industry or job function, and establishing a structure of class presidents to engage alumni by class.

In addition, Palmer expanded the Distinguished Alumni Awards and Alumni Celebration. She also instituted alumni career services, which later evolved into the Office to Advance Career and Corporate Alliances.—W.M.B.
